Cotswold Natural Stone

Case study

COUNTRY HOUSE, OXFORDSHIRE

This traditional country property, nestled in the Cotswolds, exudes classic character, and showcases how natural stone can create the perfect home to last a lifetime.

The property was built using a Cotswold stone mix, detailed with hand-crafted ashlar stone dressings. The porch at the front of the property makes for an inviting entrance, and the bay windows at the front and back of the property allow extra light into the rooms, as well as being a traditional feature of the property.

A hand-carved, natural limestone fireplace provides a great focal point in the living room, as well as warmth in the colder months.

There is a stunning ashlar bridge as you enter the property and dry stone walls provide a boundary around the garden.

- Stone specified: Grange Hill Mixed building stone with Ashlar stone dressings
- Flooring: Mixed bed Portland stone
- Exterior: Sawn Yorkstone paving, Ashlar and Grange Hill Mixed walling stone
- Fireplace: Bath stone
- Sector: Private residential

Architect: Bourne9 Architectural Design Services
Contractor: APS Masonry
Photography credit: Adam Carter Photography

Cotswold Natural Stone Ltd
The Stoneyard, Scrubbs Lane, Shilton, Oxfordshire OX18 4AW
+44 (0)1993 867392 ▪ enquiries@cns-group.co.uk ▪ www.cotswoldnaturalstone.co.uk

Federation Stone Great Britain